Join the Regional Centers for Workforce Transformation for this free workshop! Being an ally is a journey that many have been on for a long time while others are learning where to start. In our workplaces and everyday life, we encounter opportunities where we can use our voices to lift each other up. This workshop will meet everyone where they are at, address common privileges that exist in the workplace, the different roles that allies can play, and harmful actions or microaggressions that we should be aware of and conscious to avoid.
